NEW TRAFFIC LIGHT — Michigan State Highway Department workers installed Tuesday morning of this week a new stop-and-go light at the intersection of M-72 and I-75 Business Route north (where Cedar becomes McClellan). This light officially began operation at 11 p.m. on Tuesday night. Residents may not have been aware of this until Wednesday morning however, as both the new traffic control and the Michigan Avenue-Cedar light will from now on show only yellow blinkers between the hours of 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. The two lights will be timed to coincide, so that traffic moving at the proper speed going thru one will make the other.

Little League

By Harry Miller

Power is the word in Major league action last week.

The Legion nine blasted the Bear team 13-2 in their first game. Don Bradley, winning hurler, hit a 3 bagger to help his cause. Scott Montague used the wood and blasted two triples. Malinowski of the Bear team did well pitching. Little P. J. McNamara had his eye on the ball hitting 3 singles and a double. The next game, perhaps one of the better played games of the year with the Legion nailing the Bear 4-3. The game tied in the 6th inning. Allen Johnston hit a long fly in center with Tom Haskel on 3rd, came home with the winning run. Tom Haskel has also played outstanding at 3rd base for the Legion.

Wayne Welch, Bear center fielder made 3 great catches. Craig Hinkle, Tom Kaiser both made outstanding plays defensively and all 3 boys from Frederic displayed power at the plate.

The Moose beat the Bank twice, 13-4 and 15-0, to put the pressure on the Legion. Scott McClain and John Rolfe winning pitchers.

Mark Hanson of the Bank pointed to the left field wall and pow, hit a towering homer in the woods with a man on base. It perhaps was the longest ball ever hit on this field.

Crawford County Recreational Activities

A few warm nights and Trout fishermen along the AuSable Main Stream can start looking for the "Big Bugs." They should start first in the upper reaches of the river below Grayling. Then in the big water section of the Connor Flats area. The in-between sections will then fill in quickly.

South Branch fishermen are already taking nice fish, both day and night. Brown Drake hatches are coming off every day, and the Caddis are popping at night on many areas of the river from Stecker Bridge on down. Being in the right section of the stream, at the right time, spells the difference between full creels and empty creels.

The Grayling region offers 24-hour service on fishing information, canoeing, camping, and accommodations. During the day, telephone 517-348-3336, and in the evening, telephone 517-348-9403 — this for up-to-the-minute information on all four items.

Starting off from Grayling at 10:00 p.m., Friday, July 3rd, will be the 23rd Classic Run of the AuSable River Canoe Race Marathon to Oscoda. Thirty professional canoe racing teams from the Mid-West and Canada will take part in the grueling paddle match down the 240 miles of the AuSable River.

The 4th of July will furnish a full day of activity for all visitors in the Grayling region. Parades, events, and fireworks will give entertainment to the tourists of every age.

Monday Robbery At Clark Super

On June 29, 1970 sometime between midnight and 1:00 a.m. the Clark Super 100 service station at 608 Cedar Street, Grayling, was the site of an armed robbery according to Police Chief Hatfield.

The attendant on duty at the time, Steven D. Belcher, age 21, reported that a person in the station requested change for a $5.00 bill, and upon receiving the change, had a club about two feet long, and told him that this was a stick up and give him the money, amounting to $160.00. After putting Belcher in the back room, he left, according to the police.

Later that evening four persons were arrested in the Mt. Pleasant area by the State Police for gambling. One, Richard Lee Youmans, 42, of Flint, was identified by Belcher later as the one who robbed him, Hatfield stated.

The suspect is being held at Harrison and a warrant is being issued for his arrest and return to Grayling by the City Police Department.

Special State Police Patrol For Fourth of July Weekend

Michigan State Police car and plane patrols will give special attention to holiday weekend traffic from noon Thursday, July 2, to midnight Sunday, July 5, Col. Frederick E. Davids, director, reported.

Noting that the state's traffic accident death toll to date is about 100 fewer than for the same period last year, Davids urged each driver to personally strive to continue this reduction.

"Although increasing traffic at this time raises the potential for accidents, caution and courtesy by motorists can minimize this risk," Davids stressed.

"Drive protectively in congested traffic."

The department's three single-wing planes and a helicopter will complement the car patrols, weather permitting. District traffic officers and detectives will be used as needed as will members of the State Police reserve force. Officers from vehicle intwo low sprays of pink pom pom mums and white gladiolus at St. John Lutheran Church Dixie

L. Dillon became the bride of Eugene R. Lobsinger on Saturday afternoon, June 20. Rev.
Robert Haskel performed the 2:00 p.m. ceremony before about 200 guests. Music was rendered by Mrs. Clara Sorenson.

Dixie is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Otto L. Dillon of Rt.

son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lobsinger of Rt. 1, Grayling.

The bride approached the altar, escorted by her father, in a floor length gown with an Edwardian styled bodice of floral pink and green motifs, stand-up collar and Bishop sleeves. From the fitted waistline accented with a petal pink satin sash and back dior bow, fell a full skirt, which swept in a cathedral length train. Her matching floral face framer headpiece accented with pink satin streamer held secure her English mist bouffant veiling. She carried a colonial style bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations with flowing pink and white satin streamers.

Miss Deborah Ranger of Marshall, who was maid of honor wore a floor length gown of pale yellow, empiied by a satin sash. The head piece was of nylon to match the gowns veiling and accented by daisies mounted on velvet streamers.
The bridesmaids were Miss Janet Gerth of Gibraltar, and the bride's sister, Penny Dillon, who wore gowns identical to the maid of honor except in pink. The flower girl, Lisa LaMotte, niece of the groom, wore a floor length gown of pink lace over white taffeta empiied by a pink velvet sash.

Lennie Lobsinger, of Roscom-mon, brother of the groom was best man. Groomsmen were Doug Brummette of Charlotte and Bob Moss of Detroit.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Dillon chose an orchid two piece suit with white lace top.
Mrs. Lobsinger wore a pale green dress.

A reception was held following the wedding at the Sportsmens Club. The couple are making their home in Beaver Creek.

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

Huge gears turn ponderously — meshing with others which turn still others, and power is born, energy released.

Today more and more gears and gadgets make living more and more luxurious. There are machines to do almost everything. Appliances entertain us, teach us, train us.

GEARS and GADGETS

One thing remains individual. There's no "dial-a-matic" gadget for God, no pushbutton gimmick. Man's search for meaning in his life is still his own responsibility.

When man only dreamed of flying and the fastest way to travel was by horseback, God's Church was the source of all goodness and joy. It's no different today. In a world where man races for the stars, the Church remains the well-spring of truth.

Attend your church. Find faith and the good life.

Another Fourth

It has often been said that U.S. citizens have lived in a condition of freedom for so long they have forgotten the evils of oppression. We take for granted the individual worth of a person, equal rights under the law, acceptance of government as a protector and referee for all citizens and the presumption of innocence until proven guilty.

With the approach of another Fourth of July, the words of Dr. John A. Howard, president of Rockford College, as he views these matters, should have a special meaning: "Having grown up with these concepts as the conditions of our living, we cannot comprehend, we cannot register upon how revolutionary they were when first proclaimed, nor do we realize how they contrast with what exists in the police state nations, nor how they differ from contemporary democracies that carry still the deep-rooted psychological mind-set of their monarchical heritage. The existence of a House of Lords and a House of Commons maintains the message that the common man, even risen to the highest position, remains a commoner. By contrast, in our country, with our inheritance of assumptions, the phrase 'second-class citizen' very rightly stirs indignation. . . . We should think about these things on this Fourth of July, 1970.

WILMONT, S.D., ENTERPRISE: "The anatomy of any association or club includes four kinds of bones: (1) with bones — those who will go along with an idea but want someone else to do the work; (2) jaw bones — who talk a lot but do little else; (3) knuckle bones — who knock everything everyone else does; and (4) back bones — who get behind the wheel and do the work."

A Political Primer: On Nominations

Attention, class. The Old Professor will now offer a brief explanation on the various ways to get nominated for statewide political office in Michigan.

Basically there are two ways to get nominated. One is by direct petition of the people. This is where some guy (or gal) who wants to serve his (or her) fellowmen circulates petitions, secures enough signatures from friends and neighbors, and, voila, he (or she) is a candidate.

Generally the number of signatures needed is a small percentage of the number of people who voted in the most recent election, in one party or the other, for secretary of state. Thus, the number of signatures to run for governor is about 13,000.

On a statewide basis, being an incumbent helps. Gov. Milliken or Sen. Hart, for example, will have no trouble gathering enough signatures to run for reelection.

Having a statewide organization, or the wherewithal to get one going, also helps a heap. A Lenore Romney or a Sander Levin, for example, would have no trouble earning a spot on the statewide ballot.

But for Joe Doakes at the corner pool hall—whose political assets may be limited to some ideas, and some energy, and a lot of pals saying "Gee, Joe, you oughta run for governor"—the job of petition signing may be too much to master.

The primary itself is a different animal than a general election. Generally speaking the old-line, down-the-line Republicans will control the Republican primary, and the same kind of Democrats will control the Democratic primary.

A candidate who appeals across party lines may find this appeal actually a handicap in a closely contested primary; although Michigan voters can cross party lines at will, in a primary, they are limited to voting in just one party column. That's why the better bet in a hot primary usually would be the old party wheelhorse instead of the independently-leaning hotshot who's new on the scene.

For a whole bunch of state offices, the primary doesn't mean a thing. Selected at state conventions of their parties are the guys (or gals) who will run for lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state supreme court, and the various statewide educational boards.

Several different things are important at nominating conventions. One is control. Generally speaking, the incumbent governor can control the nominating convention of his party—if he chooses to do so.

Thus, Gov. Milliken could probably name the entire slate to run with him in November, if he wanted to. He already has picked James Brickley as his candidate for lieutenant governor, and the convention certainly will nominate Brickley.

How directly Milliken will choose to control the rest of the choices is unknown at this time. When Milliken himself won a convention fight for lieutenant governor to run with George Romney, it was an open convention, with hands off by Romney.

The Democratic nominee for governor, picked in the August primary, will undoubtedly pick his own man for lieutenant governor, conceivably with political balance (liberal-conservative, urban-outstate, black-white, etc.) as contributing factors in the choice.

For the rest of the ticket, several methods can be used.

The conventions could remain wide-open, with delegates making the actual choices. This happens once in a while, and here is where long-time party service, past favors now called due, effective inner-party organization, and other similar factors are important.

A party leadership consensus system can be used. This is where the greybeards within the party line up the whole slate and present it to the delegates, leaving perhaps one or two free choices to add spice to the convention.

Or if he's strong enough, the head of the ticket—the candidate for governor—can choose the whole batch of candidates, either directly or through trusted confederates spotted here and there within key delegations at the convention.

So, class, that's a quick thumbnail sketch of the statewide nominating process in Michigan.

Any questions?

Policyholder Questions Answered by The Institute of Life Insurance, 277 Park Ave., N. Y., N. Y., 10017

Q. My wife and I are in our early 30's and we have two young children. We've been apartment dwellers for almost 10 years, but now we have a chance to buy the house we've been thinking about. But with money so tight, we're having difficulty in assembling enough for the down payment. I've thought about borrowing on my life insurance. Does this make sense?

A. First of all, you can borrow on your cash value any time you feel you need the money. But remember that it will reduce the protection proportionately. That is to say, if you were to die with a loan still on the policy, the money, and any outstanding interest would have to be deducted from the insurance proceeds.

That's why many financial advisers question the wisdom of taking out a policy loan unless the family faces a bona fide financial emergency. Think twice, the experts say, before you whittle away at family protection that you have built painstakingly over the years.

The reason they talk this way is that there is no compulsion to repay a policy loan regularly, as when you borrow from a bank. Things could reach the point when you might let your policy lapse — there's no better way to erode your family's need for economic security.

Look at your situation once again with that in mind. Surveys show that most people think that policy loans should be undertaken only as a "last resort," and the tone of your inquiry suggests that you may have had some thoughts along these lines.

Let Freedom Ring

By Willard Bosserman
County Extension Director

It has been nearly 200 years since Thomas Jefferson sent the king of England a document declaring the colonists independent from him.

Many people have a feeling that since then we have been losing individual freedom. But, the contrary is true. Today we have a democracy which comes even closer to fulfilling that portion of the preamble of the Declaration of Independence which says, "all men are created equal."

When the first Constitution was ratified only white, male, property owners could vote.

Women could not vote. There were thousands of Americans in slavery, both in fact and those enslaved to uncontrolled capitalists.

Over 194 years since the Declaration of Independence a greater share of Americans have gained a sense of membership and participation in their government.

Although the Civil War was not fought to free the slaves, the emancipation of the black man was a result. The Emancipation Proclamation only freed them politically. They were still socially and economically enslaved. Not until Martin Luther King led them, did the black man have a greater sense of belonging to a free society.

A freedom taken for granted today, woman suffrage, came 140 years after the ratification of our constitution. This right came about after eighty years of demonstrations and protesting led by Susan Brodwell Anthony. She did not live to see the Nineteenth Amendment ratified in 1920.

Capitalism is permitted to bloom under democracy, but capitalism is not synonymous with democracy.

Too often capital was vested in too few hands and intolerable conditions existed for the majority. This gave capitalism an ugly image. Capitalism, unchecked, can lead to totalitarian dictatorship within a democracy. In this country the early capitalist did dictate terms of hours, wages, credit and in some instances had full control over their employee's life.

The song "Sixteen Tons" characterized the capitalistic time when the company owned the coal mines, they owned the stores, and they owned the homes. The song points out, as was often the case, the worker never quite made enough money to get the company paid up. He, therefore, "got deeper in debt." The company thereby owned the worker.

While labor in this country was struggling for more voice in the things that affected their lives, a similar struggle was occurring in Europe. Communism resulted in parts of Europe. More freedom for a greater number of people occurred in this country.

These freedoms did not come easy. They came as a result of much sacrifice and strife by those dissatisfied with having no voice in their destinies.

We may all grow weary of protest marches and demonstrations, but we would be more dissatisfied to live in Hanoi, Moscow, or Havana where they don't permit demonstrations and dissent.

A new freedom was born July 4, 1776. More freedoms have since evolved. New freedoms are yet to come.

Hunting Made Easier

By Jim Fitzgerald

There should be a wolf at every door so a sportsman could shoot it without getting his boots dirty.

This thought occurred to me while watching a Sears Roebuck commercial on TV. I know that sounds strange, Doctor, but I really haven't been feeling well since Agnew became a household word. My neck is sore from typing antiadministration columns while looking back over my shoulder.

Anyway, Sears is selling a "sonic fish call" for only $9.95. It's battery operated, you see, and hangs on a line. You drop it in the water and the fish come swimming, lured by some sort of mating sound. And when the fish gets to the sound, and doesn't find another fish waiting with open gills, you know what he does. He bites your hook.

"You'll catch more fish than you ever did before," Sears promises.

Gee, that certainly is marvelous.

Now if Sears could just do something for those wolf hunters. I learned about them via TV, too. Let's face it, TV is a splendid source of education. If it weren't for the tube, I wouldn't know anything. I wouldn't even know that Doris Day is hazardous to the health of diabetics.

But about the wolves: This travel-adventure film showed a pack of them running across the snow in Alaska. They were being chased by a low-flying airplane. The wolves didn't have a prayer. The plane swooped down and a man leaned out and pointed his high-powered rifle. Bam, bam, bam. Dead wolves all over the place. What fun!

But it's work too. And dangerous. That shooter might fall out of his plane. It would be nice if Sears could develop a sonic wolf call. Bring the wolf to the hunter.

Or how about this idea? Play sad, sad music in the woods. Constantly. This would depress the animals. They would commit suicide. The hunter's toughest job would be strapping the carcass to his fender or airplane wing. Sears could use the animals' suicide notes in their advertisements.

Of course, animal suicides might take some of the glamor out of that great TV show, The American Sportsman. That's the one where movie stars in armored tanks risk their lives shooting jungle animals with telescopic cannons.

But perhaps the Great White Hunter could prove his virility by standing nearby and actively encouraging the suicide. From the bottom of a cliff he could holler up to a tiger: "Go ahead and jump, you bum."

So he wouldn't have to get too close. Sears could sell him a megaphone. Battery operated.

Onward and Upward.

"This is an important assignment and Tom Koernke is ideally suited for it," said S. John Byington, the Detroit communications executive who heads the Michigan for Milliken Committee. Koernke majored in communications and received his degree magna cum laude. In addition to being president of the Senior Class Council he was voted the outstanding senior of 1970. The valedictorian of his high school graduating class, Koernke was captain of the varsity baseball team as well as the northern Michigan all-star team. ## SOURCE OF UNBIASED INFORMATION NEEDED

By WILLARD BOSSERMAN
County Extension Director

After shopping around for a household appliance or new automobile you become confused. Each salesman claims his product is the best and points out its special qualities. This is the salesman's job and to do otherwise would be derelict of his duty.

All of this confusion is not very helpful for the prospective buyer. There ought to be some place where people can go for information where they can take a look at the entire situation which will help them make a wiser decision.

Farmers have for over 50 years looked to the Cooperative Extension Service for information based upon research and demonstration. They have been advised to have their soil tested in order to have a scientific basis for applying fertilizer.

The homemaker has for years sought out the Extension Home Economist for unbiased information on food. More recently they have looked to the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University for information on the many new types of fabrics. The truth about detergents is a question being asked of the home economist.

Local units of government are looking towards the university for information on land use to help them in their many decisions in regard to land use regulations.

One source of information from the Michigan State University is through publication which are available from the Cooperative Extension Service Office in each county of Michigan.

This type of information helps people pull together other sources of information and to aid in making their final decision.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 103rd DISTRICT . . .

ON TAXATION and SPENDING

You and I want to see the state of Michigan operated more economically — as well as more efficiently. To achieve those goals, new priorities and better disciplines in spending our tax dollars are needed.

I would like to fight on the floor of the State House of Representatives against unnecessary state spending. (Example: the unneeded extravagance of a new State Capitol).

If you elect me as your representative in Lansing, I WILL work for the removal of school operational costs from the property tax and work for more appropriate, more adequate, fairer funding of the education of our children.

I will support proper funding of our law enforcement, conservation, mental health needs. I will oppose irresponsible handling of your money. It is long past time for government to concentrate on making the best use of the monies they have — rather than constantly seek new means of getting more.

I ask YOUR help in winning the Republican nomination for State Representative (103rd District).

Sincerely,
Louis K. Cramton
